

WEDDING ACCOMMODATION

The Bolton Hotel has a long history of care and attention to detail. It was named after one of the first ships to land exhausted immigrant onto the shores of Wellington.

The year was 1840 and on board was a young woman named Sophia Harris. Determined to plant her favourite rose in her new garden, Sophia transported a cutting in a potato, and nurtured it throughout the long and difficult journey.

The rose survived because one resourceful woman thought of doing things differently. It's that same spirit of independence that is the hallmark of everything Bolton. We are truly independent – independently owned and independent in our thinking. Being independent means we don't have to follow a formula – we make our own choices and decisions.

We treat our guests as individuals – providing them with the comfort and privacy they value. Being there for our guests and providing them with the care they need throughout their journey is what sets us apart.

The Bolton is a proudly independent spirit, uniquely Wellington and part of the very fabric of our city's history and culture.
